The MANITOBA.

A REVOLUTION IN HOTEL LIFE IN CANADA.

On Dec. 31st the Northern Pacific railroad opened at Winnipeg their new hotel, The Manitoba. This structure which is unique in design and complete in all the arrangements that go to make a first-class hotel and a comfortable home for travelers, is located in the center of the business portion of the city at the corner of Main and Water Streets, and is by far the finest hotel and railway station in Canada.
The Manitoba will be conducted on the American plan. The fact that it has been placed under the management of Mr. W. J. Gunnery for years manager of the Minnesota Club, of St. Paul, gives assurance that the table and service will be perfect in every respect. The building contains in the basement and on the first floor all the necessary adjuncts of a first-class hotel, such as the rotund reception rooms, barber shop, laundry, toilet rooms, Turkish baths, bar, billiard room, etc.
On the second floor are beautiful parlors and dining rooms, all finished in California red wood. The main dining room, which extends through two floors, is magnificent in size and decorations. Private dining rooms adjoin which are unsurpassed in their furnishings. The private parlors and bed rooms are 205 in number, many of them with bath rooms in addition. The furniture throughout is in keeping with the fine general appearance of the building.
The sanitary arrangements are perfect. A complete steam heating and electric light plant, situated in a separate building, supplies the house with warmth and light.
On the first floor of the hotel are ticket offices, waiting rooms, etc., of the Northern Pacific Railroad, affording easy facilities for travelers taking this line south, east or west. Trains make their arrival and departure from a large iron shed which is adjacent to an extension of the hotel containing baggage rooms and express offices.

YOUR COUCH
Has not yielded to the various remedies you have been taking. It troubles you day and night, breaks your rest and reduces your strength.
Now try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, before the bronchial tubes become enlarged or the delicate tissues of the lungs sustain fatal injury. As anyone and expectorant, this preparation has no equal. It soothes the irritated membrane, promotes expectoration, and induces repose.
The worst cough

Can Be Cured
by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Dr.
J. C. Gordon, Carroll Co., Va., writes: "I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my practice, and pronounce it to be unequalled as a remedy for colds and coughs."

"After the gripe—cough. This was my experience—a hacking, dry cough, with increasing tickling in the throat, keeping me awake nights, and disturbing the household.
I gave me great many of various remedies, but they gave me only temporary relief. At last I concluded to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.
I had not used half a bottle, I had my first all-night sleep. I continued to improve, and now consider myself cured."
—A. A. Shuman, Coeymans, N. Y.

By Using
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, many have been saved from fatal illness.

E. D. Estabrooks, Canterbury, N. B., says: "In the winter of 1890 I was a sufferer from croup, and was in a very dangerous condition. I took a bad cold accompanied with a terrible cough. I tried several remedies, but they failed to cure me, and it was thought I was going into a decline. On the advice of a friend, I began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in less than half a bottle completely cured me."

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas, Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed and delivered by John W. Houshew and wife, to the Crow Wing county, to secure a mortgage, made and conveyed to the State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1888, at 12 o'clock in the day, in book "J" of mortgages, on page 18, of which there is a claim to be made on the date of this notice, the amount of said mortgage being eight dollars, and no action having been taken to satisfy the same, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises thereunder, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, for cash, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Brainerd, in the County of Crow Wing, and State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1892, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, with the interest thereon, and costs and expenses of Crow Wing county, Dated December 3, 1891.

JEROME MEUSKER,
Mortgagee.

Loan No. 16.

(First publication Dec. 4, 1891.)

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default has been made in the conditions of the mortgage heretofore described, by failure to pay the interest and principal thereon, which was due on the last Saturday in December, A. D. 1890, in the sum of Three hundred and thirty dollars, and a like sum of interest and premium which became due and payable on said day, and the mortgage and every month since that time, none of which several sums have ever been paid.

The mortgagee pursuant to the provisions of said mortgage, elects to and does declare the full amount of said debt, with principal, interest and premium, due and payable, by reason of such default.

No action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof. Said mortgage contains a power of sale on default, and has been recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Crow Wing county, Minnesota, where the same may be examined.

o'clock p. m.

Place of sale: The front door of the court house in the City of Brainerd, Crow Wing county, Minnesota.

Notice is hereby given that by reason of the fact aforesaid, and by virtue of the power contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the time and place aforesaid, pursuant to law and to the power of sale in said mortgage contained, said mortgage will be sold at public auction, on and after the expiration of said notice and sale.

A glance at the political sky, however, ought to assure him that things will be hot enough over there within a few months.

AND now another man has brought suit against a theatre because his view of the stage was obstructed by two enormous hats worn by ladies in front of him. The case this time comes in Minneapolis. The crusade is evidently a "fad" just now, but it is a good one, and what is better, it is catching.

A PRESS dispatch from Berlin informs us that on Christmas day the emperor and the other members of the royal family dined alone. Such startling sensations as this should be broken on the American people more gently. Other members of us are accustomed with some frequency may be thrown into hysteria with possibly fatal results.

REMARKS on Mexico and rows in France point to a singular defeat in the character of Latin races. They may disabuse the church and divorce it from the state, but they can't let it alone a little bit. The Anglo-Saxon lets the religion tub stand on its own bottom and roar as it pleases without calling cannon weapons to make it submit to state influences.

GEORGE DUNAWAY, of Lebanon, Tenn., was sentenced the other day to two life terms in the penitentiary, with two other terms of eight and ten years respectively for good measure. A great load of anxiety must have been lifted from Mr. Dunaway's mind when he found that his future life on earth and for a small section of eternity had been kindly mapped out by an accommodating court.

BROTHER WATKINS of the medical profession has taken a photograph of the grip microbe, which he declares is of a white color and covered with bristles. It does business with the blood rather than the mucous membrane, and gives people a pain by means of keeping in rapid motion. The drug that put an end to the pernicious activity of the germ appears to be far more elusive than the germ itself.

THE discovery of a coal mine near the Straits of Magellan may be set down to one of those happy incidents which happen only about once a decade. All the steamers which passed through the Straits have had to coal there. Hitherto this coal has been brought thither from Wales to show coal of fair quality for steaming and in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of the traffic. This discovery may be far more important to the miners of Cardiff who furnished the fuel, but it will be appreciated by commerce.

There is nothing in the world more aggravating to a man with a secret than to meet people who have no curiosity.

OLD LADY AYLESBURY is one of the most extraordinary figures in London society. She wears a wig of corker curls and is noted as the possessor of a sharp tongue.

RUDYARD KIPPLING is to wed an American girl, and we wish him joy. She may train him into a decent regard for the American people—"but that's another story," as Private Mulvaney would say.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD says the worst to be said of a man in Japanese is that he is a "yellow." That country States vocabulary if it is going into politics.

It was to "pay his debts and avoid dishonor" that Lieut. Anastay of Paris murdered his benefactors, the Baroness Delard. A fine sense of honor like this, however, will not save a man from the guillotine in France.

CAPTAIN JOHN W. PHILIP, who has been selected for the command of the new armored cruiser New York, had to his credit at the beginning of the present year a total of seventeen years and nine months sea service.

DEFINITIONS OF A BABY.

Some Definitions Called Forth by a Prize Contest.

The London Tit Bits recently offered a prize of two guineas for the best definition of "a baby." The following was the winning definition:

A tiny feather of love, dropped into the sacred lap of motherhood.

The following is a selection from the best descriptions offered:

The bachelor's horror, the mother's treasure, and the despotic tyrant of the most republican household.

A human flower untouched by the finger of care.

The morning caller, noonday crawler, midnight brawler.

The magic spell by which the gods transform a house into a home.

A miniature Atlas that bears the whole world of wedded joys and cares on its little shoulders.

Father's rival in mother's love.

A stranger with unspeakable cheek, that enters a house without a stich to its back and is received with open arms by everyone.

The sapling of the tree from which will be built the bulwarks of our nation's future greatness.

A bursting bud on the tree of life.

The only precious possession that never excites envy.

A bold asserter of the rights of free speech.

The human screech owl, whose warbling notes are demoralizing to some, seraphic to many, and appealing to all.

The best developer of the most beautiful part of a woman's nature, "unselfishness."

A tiny useless mortal, but without which the world would soon be at a standstill.

The member of the family that always cries when wanted to sleep, that always sleeps when wanted to keep awake, and invariably sniffs when wanted to show off.

The latest edition of humanity, of which every couple think they possess the finest copy.

A native of all countries, who speaks the language of none.

An invention for keeping people awake at night.

That which increases the mother's lot, decreases the father's cash, and serves as an alarm clock to the neighbors.

A mite of a thing that requires a mighty lot of attention.

A diminutive specimen of perverse humanity, who would not be endured if he belonged to someone else, but being our own is a never failing treasury of delight.

A man or woman, making a start in life.

The unconscious mediator between father and mother, and the focus of their hearts.

A daylight charmer, and a midnight alarm.

About twenty-two inches of cool and wriggle, writhe and scream, filled with scintillation and testing apparatus for milk, and automatic alarm to regulate supply.

A troublesome compendium of great possibilities.

A quaint little craft called Innocence, laden with simplicity and love.

A wee little specimen of humanity, whose winsome smile makes a good man think of the angels.

The sunbeam in the house that drives dull care away.

A curious bud of uncertain blossom.

A thing everybody thinks there is a great deal too much about, unless it is their own.

A thing we are expected to kiss, and look as if we enjoyed it.

The one thing needed to make a home happy.

There is only one perfect specimen of a baby in existence, and even mother is the happy possessor of it.

The smartest little craft afloat in home's delightful bay.

A mite of humanity that will cry no harder if a pin is stuck into him than he will if the cat won't let him pull her tail.

A crying evil you only aggravate by gutting down.

A baby is a tiny drop in the vast ocean of human life, capable of infinite possibilities, and surrounded by great mysteries.

A little stranger, with a free pass to the heart's best affections.

The most extensive employer of female labor.

A nodack on the chain of love.

A soft bundle of love and trouble which we cannot do without.

False in One, False in All.

THE ENGLISH OF A LATIN PROVERB APPLIED TO A CONCERN WHICH IS NOW IN BUSINESS.

A Business started upon shams, must resort to shams, or retire.

The Royal Baking Powder Company garbled official documents to give it standing.

For this it was publicly branded.

The Food and Dairy Commissioner of Ohio caught the Royal Baking Powder Company in the act of misquoting his report, to make its goods appear unadulterated.

The same Company stole the liver of the Board of Health of the State of New York and went on dress parade in the garment.

The Board exposed this. When the apparel was removed, of course the deformity was left alone.

Then the Royal Baking Powder Company resorted to constructing a speaking machine.

It called this machine "A Government Chemist." When it mouthed its words to order, the Royal Company quoted the same and passed them around. These words represented the Royal Baking Powder as pure, etc.

"Government" is a stately word. Like everything good, it is abused by unscrupulous tricksters.

MAKE A NOTE.

There is no such office as that of Government Chemist.

A THOUGHT.

If a concern garbles official state papers, misquoting Boards of Health and Creates Official Mouth-pieces, for its own purposes, what will it do in adulterating its goods?

Dr. Price stands a foe to impure goods and tricky methods of advertising.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the only Pure Cream Tartar Baking Powder now to be obtained, and the thinking public are finding it out.

THE SWEETEST THING GOD EVER MADE

AND FORGOT TO GIVE IT TO US.

The sweetest thing God ever made and forgot to give to us. An inhabitant of Lapland.

A king who, though his sinews are only velvet, rules with a rod of iron, making strong men quail before him, and women to answer and attend to every call.

A key that opens the hearts of all classes, rich or poor, in all countries.

The delightful tyrant who rules the home, the mother's darling, and father's pride, the cause of a thousand innocent joys, the best piece of matrimonial felicity.

A pleasure to two, a nuisance to every other body, and a necessity to the world.

That which makes home happier, love stronger, patience greater, hands busier, nights longer, days shorter, purses lighter, clothes shabbier, the past forgotten, the future brighter.

HELL IS FIFTY-TWO MILES AWAY

And How He Argues It Out.

"Hell, or hades, or gehenna, or sheol, or the inferno, whatever you want to call it, is a lake of fire and brimstone, exactly fifty-two miles below the surface of the earth at sea level, and has the cubic contents of 542,900,000 miles."

"That is the statement made by Rev. C. A. A. Taylor, D. D., educational and financial traveling agent for the Florida African Methodist Episcopal conference, Indianapolis freemen representative and general preacher."

"I have come to this conclusion," he continued, "after a most painstaking investigation into the most comprehensive literature of science, philosophy and theology of libraries in Paris, London, New York and Boston, together with a minute investigation into the Holy Scriptures. I have found that the French Academy of Philosophy and Sacred Literature at Paris, and also somewhat of a linguist. I base my belief on the Scriptures. In the first place, Hebrew always speaks of hell as being down, and not up. It is often and everywhere spoken of in the Bible as being a lake of fire and brimstone, and it is not, why should the Bible say it is? You notice that where the Bible says that when Christ was three days in the tomb, he was buried in a new grave, and he was not already down? I get at my conclusion by estimating the increase of heat as we go down, and I find that at exactly fifty-two miles the heat is just great enough to melt any just substance. Here the lake of fire and brimstone begins, and it is not until it reaches the interior of the earth that it becomes molten mass, but God has put it into the heart of man and consumed him to bring about the grand consummation. In obedience to God's mandate man is gradually emptying out this interior by sinking oil wells, natural gas, and coal mines. Besides this, volcanoes are gradually preparing a place for the unregenerate who persist in disobeying divine law. The holy Scriptures tell us that at the coming of the Lord the earth will be rolled together as a scroll and burned with unquenchable fire. This means that the interior will be so emptied out that the lake of fire. The good will escape by being called to heaven."

"The Bible says the sun moves around the earth and does not say that the earth is round. For that reason believe the earth is flat, or, at least, not as round as the scientists believe it to be. But about conclusion that there are many suns and that we may have a new one every day."

"As the wife of an earl, Belle Bilton, the concert hall singer, has been most mercifully snubbed. As the mother of twin boys, one of whom will some day be Earl Clancarty, she may obtain that recognition to which her rank entitles her. It seems a little odd that it is right."

GOVERNOR RUSSELL'S fondness for sport is most catholic, ranging from whist and billiards, at which he plays an excellent game, to horseback-riding and foot ball. "It is a bargain, then?"

"Yes; but mind, by speaking the truth for a day or a week—as, indeed, I am doing now—I will pay you that I am going about voluntarily to insult everybody by telling them of their little faults, or peccadilloes, or misdeeds."

"Certainly not. You are to answer truly only such questions as are put to you, and such observations as are made at the dinner-table, or in the course of business or social intercourse with the little world around you."

"That is simple enough. But stop—you are not to go round on your knees, and then you are to ask me awkward questions which it would be painful to answer?"

"On my honor, no! All shall be fair, for I wish the experience to be fairly tried. I shall not speak of the subject directly or indirectly to a single soul during the proscribed week, nor will you speak of the subject before the end of that time, spoil all by saying to anyone—'Forgive me, for I have taken the pledge to speak the truth for a week.'"

"Certainly not. I should never under any circumstances make an apology for speaking the truth."

"Then understand me, and other?"

"Perfectly. When does my probation begin?"

"At what time do you rise?"

"From seven o'clock tomorrow, being Monday, April 1st, you must begin to speak the truth, and persevere until Monday, April 8th, by which time you will be comfortably housed in Bedlam, undergoing the refreshing discipline of the straight-jacket, and the showers-hot."

Morris laughed incredulously, and the friends having reached the end of their argument and the corner of the street at the same moment, parted, and each went his own way.

TRUTHFUL FOR A DAY.

CHAPTER I.

MAXIMA VERITAS.

"That's easy enough."

"Of course it is. Besides, I always do speak the truth."

"Do you?"

"Yes, certainly! Do! Do you mean to insinuate that I don't?"

"Oh, no! by no manner of means! There, you see I do not always speak the truth when it would be rude, for instance."

"Blewitt! I do believe you mean to question my veracity! And I won't stand that from any man!"

"I have come to this conclusion," he continued, "after a most painstaking investigation into the most comprehensive literature of science, philosophy and theology of libraries in Paris, London, New York and Boston, together with a minute investigation into the Holy Scriptures. Morris laughed incredulously, and the friends having reached the end of their argument and the corner of the street at the same moment, parted, and each went his own way.

Blewitt and Morris had been schoolmates, neighbors, and friends from boyhood. They were both of the same age—hopeful twenty-five. But Blewitt, the junior partner in a stock-broker's firm, was the tallest, handsomest, and richest man in the city, and consequently had seen more of life than his simpler friend.

THE ORIGIN OF THE ARGUMENT WITH WHICH THE CHAPTER OPENS.

The young man had been attending evening service in a Dissenting chapel, in which a highly celebrated popular preacher had been speaking of the fearful text that "Lies shall have their portion in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone for ever and ever."

This preacher spared neither rich nor poor, nor sex, man, woman, nor child, in his fierce denunciation of the daily universal crying of falsehood. In his notoriously blunt manner and pure Saxon, he told the lords and ladies present, whom he called by name, to speak of falsehood. He threatened them with the warmest corner of that warm lake. Near the close of his sermon, the young man, who had been sitting in the front of the church, and with tears in his eyes, he implored his hearers "to reform" this sinful habit "altogether," to make a beginning "to-day," by the grace of God, to speak of truth, if only for a week—for a day—and see how much better it would be for the world.

The congregation had left the church, many various comments upon this extraordinary sermon. Blewitt and Morris had been among the hearers. Morris thought that the young man was a miracle of reality; he had almost said a monster of iniquity.

"I never told a falsehood in my life," he said, "and I shall grow red in the face."

"Good gracious! he has not the remotest idea of how fast he is lying now!" thought Blewitt to himself.

"Falsehood!" continued Morris, warning with the theme—"why, falsehood is a vile matter, and the most degrading, the—the—the—"

"Oh, yes, we know all that; but it is a necessary evil."

"And truth—divine truth—is the most lovely, the most beautiful, the most elevating—"

"Exactly! Yet this lovely, this beautiful, this elevating truth was to be proved for one day in London, there would be—such a gas never was!"

"Blewitt, you shock me."

"Yes, truth would shock the earth! Why, the truth would shock the earth, the sack of Rome, the Reign of Terror, would be child's play to the horrible hubbub there would be in this world of truth were spoken for one day! It would be confusion, distraction, perdition, and chaos come again!"

"Blewitt, I never will believe the world so bad as that—never!" exclaimed Morris, earnestly.

"The Bible says it—and I know it—is so wicked, deceitful, and so self-deceiving, that it could not bear the light of truth for a single instant; for when that full light shall be poured upon the world, the day of truth will have come, for this earth will be no longer habitable."
